AIMS & OBJECTIVES

The cattle community could be considered as 'Domestic life' against lions, tigers, elephants and any other being called as 'wild life'. This 'domestic life' for millenniums have been revered as mother by sociologist who found the worth of the mother, giving the milk not only to her sons and daughters but all the sons and daughters of the mankind. The religious group also look upon the cattle as goddess because of the rarest nature of the mother cow. But we look upon this 'domestic life' as the rarest life of our creation, who contributes the highest benefits to the humanity.

The 'domestic life' whose protection, preservation and promotion we propose on a social and sociological, environmental and economic basis deserves consideration of not of one nation but the whole mankind. The contribution of milk, butter milk, butter, yoghurt, ghee (clarified butter) and cheese to the families and human life is very fantastic. No other 'wild life' or any other could provide so much beneficial provision for the upliftment and welfare of the human life. This domestic life is therefore the giver of plenty, peace and prosperity to human life, family and society.

There is no alternative to this beautiful existence of the nature, the 'domestic life' whom we respect. Even the new hybrids like Jersey and Holstein could hardly stand as a match as the Auckland and other agro scientists as well as veterinary scientists have established that A-2 milk is better than A-1. The mad cow disease in the past has also diverted the attention towards this 'domestic life'. The life of this race of this 'domestic life' is at stake.

Statistics say its population in pre-independence India was almost 100 crores that has dwindled unbelievable to a low level of population less than 10 crores. The rate of killing of this 'domestic life' is on the higher side with the introduction of more than requirements of slaughter houses with adopting even new technology of cruelty of slaughtering.

The prayer is to all peaceful population of the world to considerate to advise the society and the government to protect this rarest of the 'domestic life'. The ancient society called this race as mother because of its nature, because of the provisions that it gets to the society.

Let the green peace and all other loving persons of the world come forward and agree and find out a way how the peaceful campaign of protecting the rarest gift of the nature could become successful.

Jai Gomata
